Software technology organizations must embrace DevSecOps to confidently deliver reliable and resilient products. A recent survey by Software Technology Magazine found that 81% of IT leaders believe in the importance of DevSecOps and that 24% of organizations have implemented it in their workflow.

And this year, making it a priority for IT leaders to step up:

- 74% expect their teams to work more efficiently
- 38% plan to automate more processes
- 86% prioritize delivering secure software
- 27% are focused on improving user experience

Business adoption metrics:
- 57% of organizations have made significant investments in DevSecOps
- 62% plan to increase their investments
- 42% have seen an increase in productivity and efficiency
- 92% believe in the importance of DevSecOps for their organization

In the face of challenges, IT leaders are making smart decisions in DevSecOps investments:
- 53% focus on the technology
- 43% on the people
- 37% on the processes

Download the research for a deeper insight into IT leaders' perspectives and strategies for embracing DevSecOps.